How to Have a Neat Looking Clothes Closet-Divorce Not Road to Happiness-Nothing Lost by Trying to Save Happiness-Everything Gained-Nine Recipes of Tempting Foods for Invalids.

COVER TO PROTECT DRESSES. A friend of mine has the neatest clothes closet I have ever seen. A pole extended crosswise in the clos-et. All of her dresses are hand et. All of her dresses are hung on floor of the building padded hangers and covered with a dress cover. Each dress cover re-quires three and one-half yards of called. Cut the piece in two, making each piece one and two-thirds yards long. Sew the pieces together lengthwise. Then turn an inch hem on one long edge and sew a two inch facing of plain color to the other long edge Make six button holes in the plain and sew buttons at corresponding intervals on the inch wide hem. Sew the bag across the bottom so that the opening is left directly in front, shape the top of the hag slightly by sloping upward toward the middle, following the line of the shoulders Sew the bag across the top, allowing ish this with a piece of the plain color.

DIVORCE IS NOT ROAD TO HAPPINESS.

Too many women ruin their whole lives by not having the courage and patience to try to make the marriage what it should be. They excuse them selves by saying that things could never be as they were before and that trust would be gone. But that is not true; who of us does not know that we can live through dreadful experiences and still come back to happing ences and still come back to happi ences and still come back to happi-ness. Many a marriage is all the more preclous because of some such scar, the two who came so near to parting see, after they are older and wiser, that they could not really have been happy apart. At the very least, nothing can be lost by trying to save happiness, and everything may be nancing the construction of a concrete road across Davis county, which will cost more than $175,00, the commstsioners of that county will probably levy a 5-mill tax at a special meet ing Monday. The commissioners have requested all the towns to send representatives to attend the meeting. and unless a majority of these are opposed to the tax it will be levied. This action was taken by the com-missioners following a series of meetings held in the county yesterday by Governor Spry, Jesse Jewkes, state treasurer, and E. R. Morgan, state road engineer. Meetings to sound out the sentiment of the people were held st Clifton, Clearfield, Layton, Kays-Farmington, Centerville and ville.

Governor Spry, Mr. Jewkes and Mr. Morgan returned to Sait Lake last night and were enthusiastic over the work accomplished on the trip, al-though they admitted that the sentiment seems to be about evenly divid-ed concerning the road at present. They say that in the event the tax levy is passed Monday a movement for a county bond issue may be started and that meetings to boost the proposition will be held later

The proposed road will extend from the Salt Lake county line near Beck's Hot Springs through Bountiful, Centerville, Farmington, Kaysville, Layton, Clearfield and Clifton to the Weber county line. It will be twentyseven miles long and will cost approximately $6500 a mile The taxable property in the county is estimated at $6,500,000 and the pro-posed tax would yield about $32,000 If this was secured the state road commission would furnish $3600 out of the county road fund. Unless there is a special bond issue, this tax and state aid would be necessary for live years to secure the needed sum. While a recent attempt to bond the county for school purposes was turned sons now opposed to the road are
